Alastair Bruerton

Senior Product Designer

I am a Senior Product Designer with 18 years' professional experience. My broad range of skills allows me to guide projects through the initial user research, strategy and wireframing phase to the creative design and build across a number of digital platforms. I am passionate about solving complex design challenges using strategic thinking, data-driven insights and user-centric methodologies. I enjoy working in a fast-paced environment using an iterative design process. This enables me to be agile and to test and validate design changes to meet both the business goals and user needs.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Xero – Senior Product Designer, Wellington

September 2020 – February 2025

I worked in Reporting at Xero as part of the Reporting & Insights team. I led the end-to-end design process, resulting in solutions that meet our customers' needs. I undertook usability testing and iterated to continuously improve and refine my designs, while adhering to Xero's design system (XUI) and the Reporting framework. I worked closely and collaboratively with Product Managers, Engineers, stakeholders and teams across Xero.

DNA – Senior Experience Designer, Wellington

October 2017 – April 2020

I took a user-centred approach to design to help organisations improve their customer experience across their digital touch points. My role involved UX, quantitative and qualitative research, workshops and co-design sessions, strategy, design, user-testing, synthesis and making recommendations.

I worked with a wide range of businesses and government agencies including MBIE, Ride Forever (ACC), Electricity Authority, NZ Post, Kiwibank, Mojo Coffee, Tenancy Services and Sport NZ.

ABruerton Ltd – Contract UX/Product Designer / Director, London

November 2013 – May 2017

Creative digital services for Product, responsive / mobile UX, interactivity, UI, visual design and front-end development. I worked in-house for clients, including The AA, FairFX, Dixons Carphone, Barclays, ILN and JWT.

Bauer Media – Digital Designer, London

June 2012 – September 2013

My role was to provide creative digital services for commercial and marketing projects for KISS FM and Magic FM. This involved UX, design and front-end development.

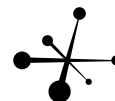

NV Interactive – Interactive Designer, Wellington

April 2011 – April 2012

This work involved UX, visual design and front-end development, allowing me to work on a project from the strategy to the delivery phase.
